

2019 LOUISVILLE GOLF
OCTOBER 18-20 • UofL GOLF CLUB

Born in 2002, the Cardinal Cup has blossomed into one of the most exciting tournaments in the country.

Louisville won the first team title in 2002 and has collected seven more victories along the way. Recently, the Cardinals captured four consecutive wins at the event, and five of the last seven, with Lauren Hartlage (2017) securing the most recent individual crown.

The goal continually has been to attract the nation's elite programs from all over the country. And, teams have flocked to Louisville in October. Those looking for a challenge certainly have found their match, with only two programs finishing the event even or below par – Louisville's 2013 team and Illinois' 2018 team.

In the 15-year history, Georgia State's Lisbeth Meincke (2004 and 2005) and Wisconsin's Brooke Ferrell (2015 and 2016) repeated as the individual champions.

The format for the 17-team field returns to 18 holes over the course of three days at the recently renovated UofL Golf Club.

The field features five programs that advanced to NCAA Regional Tournament play last season, four programs receiving votes in the coaches' poll, and a host of highly talented individuals, and the 2019 Cardinal Cup promises to be filled with surprises, frustrations, and celebrations.
